The Government of India enacted three new laws to replace its colonial-era criminal laws. The Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) replaces the Indian Penal Code (IPC), the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS) replaces the Criminal Procedure Code (CrPC), and the Bharatiya Sakshya Adhiniyam (BSA) replaces the Indian Evidence Act (IEA). These new laws are effective from 1st July, 2024. This was done to modernize the legal framework considering advancement in technology, economic offences and structured crimes.

To keep the knowledge and skills of members updated on the changing legal arena of our Country, The Institute of Company Secretaries of India is announcing a Crash Course on BNS, BNSS and BSA.
